

JOIN THE 2025 SUMMER SCHOOL IN ORLEANS

Global value chains and sustainable development

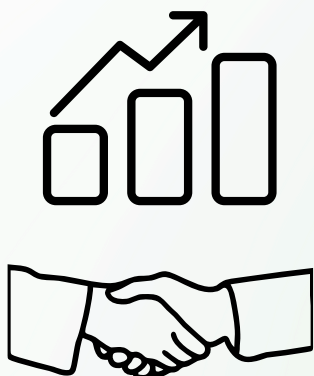

What's in it for you ?

- Economics and Management comparative view of the challenges of raising uncertainty (climate change, geopolitical uncertainty, ...) on GVCs
- Gain 3 ECTS credits and practical experience with applications.
- Learn from top experts, including Radoslaw Dolecki, Sebastian Kessing, Isabelle Rabaud, and Volker Stein.
- Participate in joint work with students from other Universities and an unforgettable visit of the DIOR factory in Chartres.

Why attend ?

- Earn credits while enhancing your skills
- Collaborate in an international environment (sessions in English)
- Be part of common reflexion on topical issues in environment and globalization

What outcome ?

- Adaptation to changing environment
- Coping with new challenges
- identify available solutions - updated analysis
- bridging the gap between the micro and macro levels
- inter-cultural dialogue and collaboration

Save the date : September 29 - October 3 2025

 Location : University of Orléans, France

Secure your spot on : July 11 2025

Join us in Orléans and shape the future of sustainable production

WHO SHOULD ATTEND ?

Perfect for economics and management students in :

- Bachelor (3rd year)
- Master
- PhD
- Students with the passion for globalization and climate change !

Program Highlights

(29/09/25-03/10/25) In-Person Sessions :

- Lectures and practical sessions
- Managerial and economic consequence of disruption of GVCs
- How to cope with long term risk in time of rising (geopolitical, environmental, security-related, ...) uncertainty
- Economics and Management strategies to imagine the future: comparative view from France, Germany and Poland

November 2025, Online Mi-term meeting :

Presentation of a progress report by the group

December 2025, Online defence of the report :

Presentation by the group of their results

Contact

international.deg@univ-orleans.fr

isabelle.rabaud@univ-orleans.fr